

FOUND THEIR SON DEAD.

AD NEWS FOR MR. AND MRS. KNEVALS ON THEIR RETURN FROM ABROAD.

he Young Man had Remained in Town to Complete his Studies—His Death Said to be Due to Apoplexy or Heart Disease, Russell Knevals, aged 23, the only son of

Dr. Sherman W. Knevels, ex-President Arthur's W. partner, stayed at home this summer in a father's house at 62 East Fifty-ninth street, while his parents went to Europe, and the two sisters spent their vacations at Watch Hill. He was studying to graduate at the college on the College of Physicians and Surgeons, where he had been a student for the past three years. The only occupants of the house besides himself were the two daughters, Mrs. Annie Wanka, and her little daughter. Mrs. Wanka acted as housekeeper, and Mr. Knevels had breakfast and took his meals from his room. He dined out. He spent the evening with Dr. Albert E. Little of East Fifty-ninth street, an intimate friend, and returned home at about 10 o'clock, and

He did not get up to his breakfast yesterday morning, but the housekeeper thought nothing of it, as he sometimes slept until noon on Sundays. When at 1 P. M., however, he had not left his room, Mrs. Wanka became alarmed, and rapped upon his door. She got no response. Dr. Little called just then and keep an appointment he had with Mr. Knevals, and he burst in the door of the room. The young man lay dead in his bed, his face and a portion of his body were purple, and his head and chest were suffused with blood. Dr. Little concluded that his friend had died of either pulmonary apnoxy or heart failure.

and I died suddenly at 62 East Fifth street, was sent to the East Fifty-first street hospital, where I was quarantined. Sexton Boyd of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, of which Mr. Boyd is pastor, was called in to take charge of the body. He saw undertaker Hart of 609 Madison avenue, who called on Coroner Nugent's deputy, Mr. Meagher, and obtained permission to put the body in the morgue. I was not in the body, because it was not Coroner Nugent's case. Coroner Levy should have been the one to call on the undertaker, but he was out of town. It was Coroner viewing the body yesterday. It will be Coroner Messemmer's duty to go to the morgue this morning and make an autopsy. It is considered necessary to determine the cause of young Kevala's death. Dr. Little and Dr. Hiss have been called on. Dr. Little, except what he believed was malaria, and which he thought might have been caused by an excavation for pipes, and Dr. Hiss, except what he believed was genuine to relieve his malaria. —Special

Mr. Russell had expected their son to be on the dock to meet them. They did not learn until they arrived home at 6 o'clock that Russell was dead. Mrs. Knevals was prostrated by the shock, but Mr. Knevals was able to bear up and to break the sad news to relatives who had come to congratulate his wife and himself upon their return.

Mr. Knevals said that he at once suspected that his son had died of apoplexy or heart disease. His son never complained of heart trouble, but he was large for his years, weighing 180 pounds, and was of very intemperate habits. The rest of the family were all hale and hearty.

Mr. Knevals said that he had three other children, Mr. Russell and two daughters.

as not a particle of reason for believing that his son had died other than a natural death.
His letters to his parents showed that he was a good spirit. He had just finished his course of study, and was to have gone out of town
this week for recreation.

Surrogate Collins, who was a passenger with Mr. Knevals on the Serbia, was met at Quarantine by a messenger, who brought him word of his mother's death in New Hampshire.

SHOT AT BY HIS RIVAL.

An Exciting Interruption of Miss Bennett's
Sunday Promenade.

David C. Bourguin, 23 years old, a working trowler, was arrested at Stapleton, Staten Island, last night, for having attempted to kill Andrew Demise, 33 years old. Demise, who is the proprietor of a saloon at New York avenue and Fing-er-board road, Clifton, has for several years been keeping company with Miss Ida Bennett, a pretty brunette, who lives with her father in a white house at the foot of Cliff street, Clifton. A few months ago Demise had a quarrel with her, and since then he has not visited her. During the last few days he had been visiting at the home of Miss Bennett. The enraged Demise, who several weeks ago, it is said, threatened to kill Bourguin, Bourguin, considering his life in danger, must have been justified in his attack. It is probable that he should have been warned of the danger.

Yesterday afternoon Bourgeois and Miss Bannister went for a walk on New York avenue. As they reached Hubel avenue they were encountered unexpectedly by Demise, who had followed them. He was armed with a revolver and began to scold the couple, when, without any warning, it is said, Bourgeois pulled the revolver and fired a shot at Demise. He missed him. Demise at the same moment drew a knife and was about to stab Bourgeois when he was seized by several bystanders. They took the knife from him, and he was about to make another attack upon Bourgeois, when he was again seized by several bystanders, who arrested both him and Bourgeois. Justus Vaughn had Bourgeois in $2,000. Demise also was held.

Obituary.

From Hon. Alpheus Hardy died in Boston yesterday from blood poisoning, the result of a wound in the leg received in a fall from a scaffold at the

[illegible]

49 Did Fill the Strikers' Places.

Michael J. Halloran, a member of the executive Committee of District Assembly 40, said last week that the engineers and firemen on the Brooklyn Bridge, who were laid off by the strike of the District Assembly of 40, and that 49 supplied them to the Brook-lin elevated road.

The Weather Yesterday.

Indicated by Fahrenheit's thermometer: 3 A.M., 78; 6 A.M., 78; 9 A.M., 79; 12 M., 79; 3 P.M., 79; 6 P.M., 78; 9 P.M., 77.

Signal Office Prediction.
Slightly warmer, fair weather, winds shifting southerly.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Eighty-three egrets arrive yesterday.
As far as could be ascertained, Lewis, the married man who was courting Rachel, was not at the funeral.
The steamship Caribbea, bringing the racing gear of the South yacht, the Tropic, arrived last night.
Forty-seven year old Jacob Briggs of 43 Broadway street took his arm yesterday while skating on rollers in the lake at Fort Lee.
A Frenchman, Franchon arrested for robbing for riding on Hudson River freight cars and Justice Duffy yesterday sent him to each.

the stairs of East Third street fell into the East River on Friday night. The drunk, yesterday, and who had drowned if East built of the ferryboat, since had not failed him out.

Michael McCormick of 418 West Twenty-seventh street advised James Freeman of 402 West Forth street on Thursday at Sixth avenue and Twenty-seventh street that he had seen a young man, who had fallen into the Roosevelt Hospital. McCormick was locked up.

The father of Isabella Hawkins, the little child who was killed on Friday by falling over the stair castrade in the rear tenement, 141 Cherry street, says that she was a very healthy child, and that she had not been ill over it; as another child recently did report, a bad injury construction of the stairway is to blame.